

Andrew Piraino, PT, DPT, OCS, CSCS, PES

Dr. Piraino earned his Doctor of Physical Therapy degree from the University of Southern California (USC) in 2012. He graduated from USC's orthopedic residency program in 2013 and Washington University in St. Louis' movement system fellowship in 2019. He is an adjunct instructor of clinical physical therapy and residency mentor for USC, regional mentor for Washington University in St. Louis' movement system fellowship, and teaches nationally. He currently practices full-time and is a senior physical therapist with Houston Methodist in Friendswood, TX. He has published in JOSPT and is the sole author of an APTA Academy of Orthopedic Physical Therapy neuromuscular healing monograph. Dr. Piraino is a board-certified clinical specialist in orthopedics, a member of the APTA's orthopedic, education, and research sections, and a certified strength and conditioning specialist.