

Call for Papers
Leadership for Today and Tomorrow
National Conference for College Women Student Leaders

AAUW (American Association for University Women) and NASPA- Student Affairs Administrators in Higher Education are pleased to invite you to submit a proposal for the 2011 National Conference for College Women Student Leaders (NCCWSL). NCCWSL is a two-and-a-half day conference focused on important and contemporary leadership issues and is designed to help students hone their leadership skills for work on their campus and in their community. NCCWSL will be held June 2 -4, 2011 at the University of Maryland, College Park, and will focus on the theme, Leadership for Today and Tomorrow. Conference attendees are both current and aspiring female leaders on their campuses and in their communities. While most attendees are college sophomores and juniors, NCCWSL also attracts non-traditional and graduate students interested in both leadership and feminism. While at the conference, these women have the opportunity to explore the philosophical underpinnings of leadership and women's issues, to develop skills for being an effective campus leader, and to learn about opportunities for personal development.

The 2011 Conference Workshop Committee encourages you to submit program proposals for general interest sessions lasting 75 minutes by February 11, 2011 at <http://nccwsl.org/Pages/workshops.aspx>. All workshops will be held on Friday, June 3. Submissions on the following themes, and that encourage active participation and engagement from attendees, are particularly encouraged:

- current women's issues
- diversity, inclusion and equity
- leadership skills and styles
- advocacy and social change
- community involvement
- global citizenship
- environmental stewardship
- politics / public policy
- career planning and work-life balance
- financial management
- women and scholarship

On behalf of the Conference Committee, we encourage you to submit a proposal that will inspire conference attendees and help them to learn about Leadership for Today and Tomorrow. Please let us know if you have any questions.

For more information about the AAUW/NASPA National Conference for College Student Women Leaders, including registration information, visit: nccwsl.org.