MGT 330 - Socially Responsible Enterprises [3]

3 credits
This course explores the ways in which various types of business organizations are addressing the need for continuity between the social, environmental, and economic outcomes of business activity. Case studies of organizations across multiple sectors with focus on these topics are ongoing. The course includes interaction with representatives from these organizations, and with researchers from academia and other venues.
Prerequisite: Junior standing or permission of instructor