The LBC Form for Students
Declaration of a Learning Beyond the Classroom (LBC) Experience

Overview
The Learning Beyond the Classroom (LBC) experience provides an opportunity for all students in the College of Arts and Sciences to broaden their education to include exciting and rewarding involvement in a learning experience not commonly found in a traditional course setting. The LBC experience will help you develop knowledge and skills that are sought by employers, graduate schools and professional schools and are useful for life. Depending on the LBC experience you choose, the knowledge and skills learned can be discipline-specific, or more general, or a combination of both.

Learning Beyond the Classroom Experiences
The following is a list of the LBC experiences you can choose from:

• Internship/Practicum/Student Teaching Placement (involvement in organized, career-related activities supervised by an external agency, business, or organization, or by a unit of the University)
• Honors Thesis (conducting an independent project under the direction of a faculty member culminating in the writing of a thesis in fulfillment of the Honors program requirements)
• (Non-thesis) Undergraduate Research (involvement in a project under the direction of a faculty member that does not require the writing of a thesis)
• Teaching Assistantship (e.g., teaching a laboratory section of Chemistry 110)
• Service Learning/Civic or Community Engagement (e.g., substantial involvement in organized activities related to serving the community, such as working to develop and/or advocate for public policy)
• Study Abroad (arranged through the Study Abroad Office)
• Preceptorship (available fall semesters only)
• Other (with the approval of mentor, advisor, and department chair, another experience that meets the LBC criteria may be proposed as an alternative)

LBC Learning Objectives
While the options above provide a wide variety of opportunities for students to engage in activities beyond the classroom, a true Learning Beyond the Classroom experience is a learning experience. In order to fulfill the LBC requirement, the activities you engage in should provide opportunities to achieve all of the following learning objectives:
1. Independent learning
2. Higher-order skill development (e.g., research, applied writing, leadership, critical and creative thinking, etc.)
3. Problem solving and resourcefulness

In addition, your chosen LBC activity should make it possible for you to achieve at least one of the following objectives:

1. Professional development (e.g., learning about the world of work, professional behavior etc.)
2. Personal development (e.g., self-awareness, ethical values, resilience, social relationship skills)
3. Development of professional contacts and networking skills

The Two Main Ways to Complete Your LBC Requirement

1) Approved LBC courses (see attached list)
   Certain courses are likely to provide structured opportunities for completing your Learning Beyond the Classroom requirement. The student and advisor are still responsible for ensuring that the approved LBC course fulfills the learning objectives listed above, and they must still complete all the documentation requirements spelled out on the LBC Form.

   NOTE: Typically, regular courses do NOT count as fulfilling the LBC requirement, although students may seek an exception for courses that incorporate a substantial service-learning or civic/community engagement component, with the support and approval of the faculty instructor, their major advisor, and department chair.

2) Activities that are not part of a course
   To qualify as an LBC, activities that do not take place in an approved LBC course must fulfill the learning objectives listed above, and must still be documented using the LBC Form. In addition, the student and advisor must ensure

   - Academic Linkage: Does the activity involve a connection to or an application of academic knowledge in some way?
   - Duration: Is the activity sustained over the course of the semester and of significant duration (e.g., 30 hours or more)?
Instructions
Before beginning any activities to fulfill the LBC requirement, you should:

1. Consult with your major advisor to choose the most appropriate LBC experience for you.
2. Register for LBC 400 - Learning Beyond the Classroom.
3. Complete all sections of the LBC Declaration Form.
4. Compose a short narrative of 500 words or less (LBC Declaration):
   a. Describe the LBC experience you have chosen.
   b. Indicate how this experience relates to your career interests.
   c. Establish the timeline for completing the activities
   d. Discuss exactly how that experience will provide you with opportunities to achieve the required learning objectives (listed above).

5. Obtain all signatures.
6. Midway through the experience, complete the LBC Interim Progress Report and obtain all signatures.
7. After completing the LBC, reflect on your experience (LBC Reflection), obtain all signatures, and submit the completed Declaration form to the A&S College Evaluator (Hillyer Hall, Room 204 or 205).
8. Upon receipt of the completed Declaration form documenting your successful LBC experience, the Evaluator will enter a passing grade ("P") for LBC 400.
